LITERATURE.

THE STOMAGE AND ITS DIFFICULTIES, by Sir James Eyre, M. D. Published by J. B. Lippincott & Co.

REVIEW OF NEW BOOKS.

This work was originally published about seventeen years ago in England, and it has passed through several editions since then. The author gives the result of his own professional experiences as to the causes of dyspepsia and other stomachic disorders, and the diseases which are likely to result from the neglect or disorganization of the internal functions of the human system. The hints for diet and regulation of the stomach are clear and practical, and cannot fail to be of benefit to those who will peruse them carefully and give them the attention they deserve. The work is written in a pleasant vein, and it is interspersed with professional anecdotes which makes it very amusing reading, and which serve to point the moral of the author's Carmina Crucis. By Dora Greenwell. Received from J. B. Lippincott & Co.

Miss Greenwell has taken a prominent place among the minor female poets of the day, and her verses, while they do not soar to any great poetic heights, breathe a spirit of genuine poetry which commends them to the attention of cultivated readers. The present volume is a collection of religious poems, which will be perused with gratification by many. The following, although perhaps not the best, we quote, as being a suitable length for our purpose, and because it represents about the average merit of the collection :-

ONE PRIEND.

"Said a sick and lonely child, Often have I tired of thee, Tired of all thy answers mild, Heard so oft, so wearily: Wilt thou never tire of me, Gentle Patience? now look forth From our window looking north, And tell us where the others play All this long, warm summer day "Love is standing in the sun, Joy and beauty at his side, Now in one their shadows run. Hope has sent an arrow wide: Shading from his brow the light. Now I see him watch its flight." "Oh! that they would look this way. Oh! that to this quiet room They would come awhile to play! See my rose-tree all in bloom

In his cage! they need not stay Longer than they please!' the child Patience soothed with answer mild." The volume is handsomely printed and bound, and it is illustrated by a number of Germanesque designs which are not without artistic merit, but which are not in a style that we admire altogether. -From Turner Brothers & Co. we have received "Five Acres Too Much," by Robert B. Roosevelt. The aut or, after reading

"Ten Acres Enough," came to the conclusion that if a Philadelphia mechanic could do so much with ten acres of poor land, a New York lawyer ought to be able to produce equally gratifying results with five acres of good ground. After giving the matter what he considered a fair trial, he came to the conclusion that rural felicity as described in such books as "Ten Acres Enough" is a delusion and a snare.

The results of his experiences make a very amusing volume, which, however, proves principally that farming was not Mr. Roosevelt's forte, and his failure to make five acres pay expenses will scarcely have much weight with those who know what farming really is, and who go about it in a proper manner. The work is written in a serio-comic vein, which will be appreciated by many readers, and it may serve the useful purpose of preventing other amateur farmers from going into a busi- 1009 ness that they do not understand, and to prevent those already engaged in the cultivation of ten-acre farms from making some of the more palpable blunders that brought him to -The same house sends us "The Sacristan's Household," by the author of "Mabel's Progress," etc., an entertaining novel of German life; and the second and concluding part of "He Knew He Was Right," by Anthony Trollope. These works are published in cheap paper-cover editions, and they are both copiously illustrated with good designs,

-From Reed Meyer, No. 722 Arch street, we have received the "Kmghts Templar March," a spirited composition in commemoration of the semi-centennial anniversary of St. John's Commandery, No. 4, K. T., June

STOVES, RANGES, ETO. NOTICE .- THE UNDERSIGNE NOTICE.—THE UNDERSIGNE would call the attention of the public to his NEW GOLDEN KAGLE FURNACE. This is an entirely new heater. It is so constructe as to once commend itself to general favor, being a combination of wrought and cast troe. It is very simple in its construction, and is perfectly air-tight, self-cleaning, having no pipes or drams to be taken out and cleaned. It is so arranged with upright flues as to produce a larger amount of heat from the same weight of coal than any furnace now in use. The hygremetric condition of the airas produced by my new arrangement of exponation will at once demonstrate that it is the only Hot Air Furnace that will produce a perfectly heathly atmosphere.

Those in want of a complete Heating Apparatus would do well to call and examine the Golden Eagle.
